SCHEDULE

Friday, April 18

P.M. For those arriving in the afternoon, visiting the studio earlier is appropriate. Or, you can visit labyrinths in the area.

7:00 Social time at the studio, introductions, looking at displays.

8 - 9 Presentation: The life of a labyrinth maker. Reflections by Robert on 11 years as a labyrinth maker.

Saturday, April 19

Please arrive having already eaten breakfast. Coffee, juice, and donuts will be provided.

8:30 - 10 The geometry and construction of classical labyrinths.

10:30 - 12 Demonstration of canvas labyrinth making, including tools and techniques. Given by Judy Hopen, our studio manager, who may have personally drawn and painted more labyrinths than anyone in history.

12 - 1 Catered lunch provided.

1-2:30 Contemporary labyrinths. Photos and discussion about materials, costs, and important considerations when making labyrinths.

3 - 4:30 Practice time. Hands-on experiencing drawing and making labyrinths from various materials including masking tape, canvas, stones, Post-Its, washers, etc.

5 - 5:30 Completing the day, questions and answers, sharing.

Dinner On your own. Many excellent places near-by.

8 p.m. Unscheduled time. If people want to do more, or want to network, the studio will be available. We can discuss your projects, give our suggestions. We will stay as long as people are interested.

Sunday, April 20

8:30 - 10 The geometry and construction of the Chartres labyrinth.

10:30 - 12 Hands-on experience making actual labyrinths from a variety of materials.

12-1 Catered lunch provided

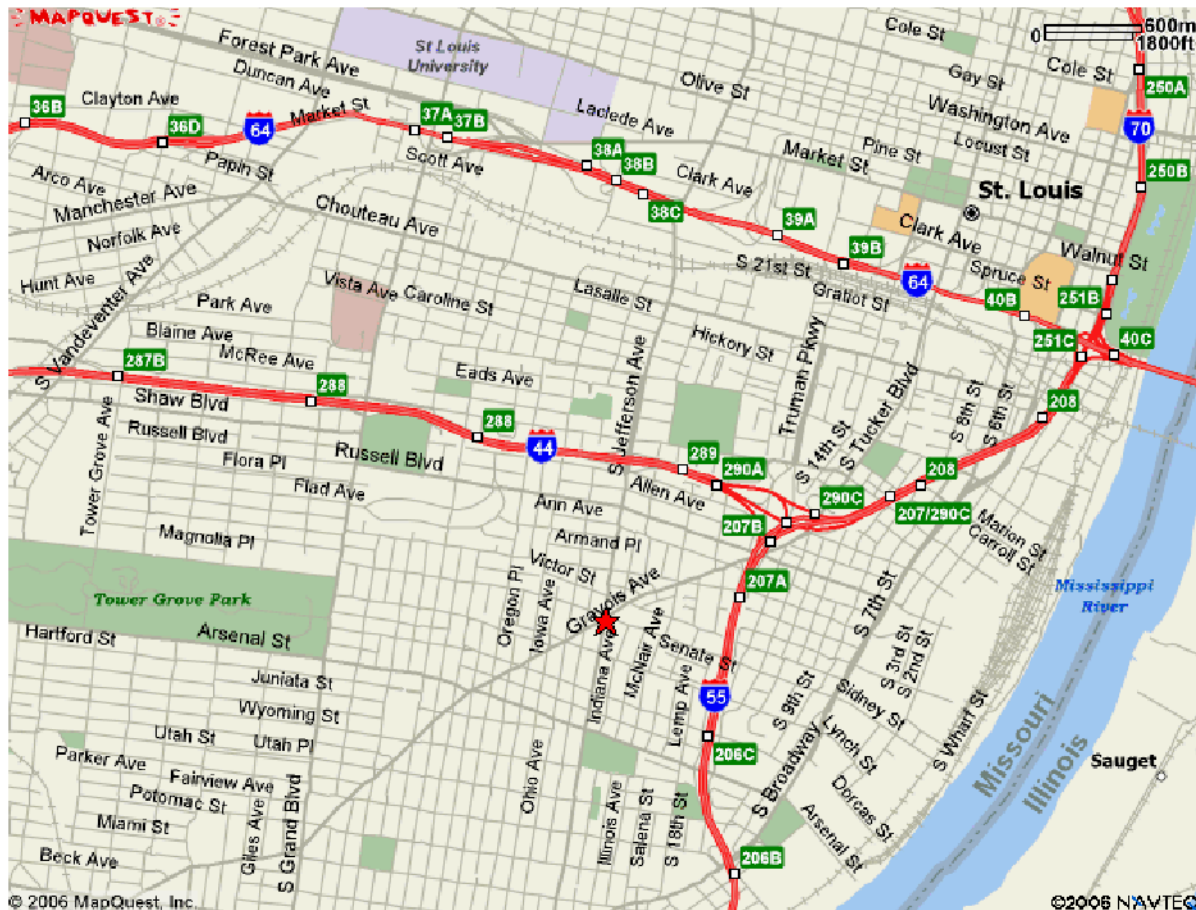

1-2:30 Discussing the practical side of being a labyrinth builder, including how to work with institutions, how to be a consultant, and more. If you want to get a labyrinth at your church or hospital, or you want to offer to others your expertise as a labyrinth person, this will be very helpful information.

3:-4:30 Unscheduled time. This will be determined by the group.

4:30 Closing circle. Then return to your life, confident in your ability to make labyrinths.

HOUSING AND PRACTICAL INFORMATION

St. Louis is not a difficult place for getting around. Our studio is located in the southern part of the city of St. Louis itself, generally called South St. Louis. Four major interstate highways meet in downtown: I-44, I-64, I-55, and I-70. We are just a few miles from downtown. Our studio address is 2725 South Jefferson Avenue, which is 100 yards south of the intersection with Gravois Avenue, just below the star in the map below (west side of street). The building was built in 1885.

Housing choices include everything that is downtown, as well as Lafayette Square and Soulard. Modest hotels cost in the $100-$125 range, with B&B's being about the same. Near the airport, west of this map (20 to 25 minute drive) there are numerous low cost motels in the $59 range. On the Internet, www.hotels.com has discounted rates, although there is a penalty for cancelling.

We made special arrangements at this hotel:

Holiday Express, 2625 Lafayette Avenue, St. Louis - $95 (Our price is $82)

This is the closest lodging to the studio, but still more than a mile. Not really walking distance, as the neighborhood isn't that great. Free breakfast, pool, and Internet connection. Be sure to mention Labyrinth Enterprises to get the special rate. This is just northeast of the intersection of highway I-44 and Jefferson Avenue.
